

In-House Training

Select from over 100 training courses and workshops. Whether you wish to train 5 or 500 delegates, we will provide the team and expertise to meet all your training needs. We also provide customised learning solutions where our trainers develop a course for you, that is designed to meet your exact requirements.

Benefits of running a course in-house:

- You will have an initial consultation with our trainer, who will offer you advice and guidance
- Courses are always tailored to meet your requirements
- Training will be arranged at a location that suits you
- Training will be arranged at a time and date that fits in with your business
- Exercises and case studies will be specific to your industry
- Receive company specific feedback, in the form of a post-training report
- Train your entire team and get consistent skills throughout the organisation
- In-house training often doubles up as a team building session
- Save on delegate travel and accommodation costs – our trainer comes to you
- Do more with your budget, the more people you train, the more you save
- More cost effective than sending large groups on our public courses – get at least a 30% saving
